The Center for Agroecology & Sustainable Food Systems is a research, education, and public service program at the University of California, Santa Cruz, dedicated to increasing ecological sustainability and social justice in the food and agriculture system. On the UCSC campus, the Center operates the 2-acre Alan Chadwick Garden and the 25-acre Farm. Both sites are managed using organic production methods and serve as research, teaching, and training facilities for students, staff, and faculty.

Farm and Garden internships are offered at all 3 sites: The Chadwick Garden (near Merrill College), the Farm Garden (hand-work market garden co-located with the farm on lower campus), and the Farm field site (lower campus). Each site provides instruction in principles, methods and techniques of ecological horticulture, with slightly different emphases:

Chadwick Garden: Deciduous fruit trees and organic orcharding; intensive gardening techniques; compost making and use; cut flower production; specialty crops.

Farm Garden: Market gardening; sexual & asexual greenhouse propagation; cut flower production; hoophouse production; making and using compost, small grains and beans; high density nutrition crops.

Farm Fields: Production techniques for small scale agriculture; greenhouse transplant production; strawberry and blueberry harvests; making and using compost; organic orchard care; CSA production techniques; farm to college dining hall sales; farm scale seed saving.

Hours of Operation: Monday and Wednesday afternoons, 2-5 pm (Spring Quarter 2012) Please contact the Garden/Field Managers located on the first page to find out more and sign up for an internship.
