Welcome to Everett Family Farm! The farm is nestled in the foothills of the Santa Cruz Mountains, on the beautiful Soquel-San Jose River. Everett Family Farm is a 45-acre organic farm with approximately 7 acres in cultivation of vegetables, 1 acre in flowers, and the rest in apple, persimmon, and stone fruit orchards. We are also home to over 300 laying hens, a handful of goats, and a few sweet farm dogs and cats. This internship specializes in organic row crop production, i.e. growing veggies! Jobs that the interns will be doing are diverse, ranging from greenhouse production, field crop planting, weeding, harvesting and packing, to building and repairing farm infrastructure. Interns are often called upon to do different and sometimes tedious jobs in all kinds of weather. Be prepared for hard physical labor. Efficient production is critical to the success of the farm. Training will be done by farm manager Emily Parsons. There is no formal curriculum so interns will be expected to take control of their own education, using Emily and anyone else on the farm as a resource. We are cooperatively minded and strive for a harmonious workplace. The farm is a magical and bucolic little slice of heaven and we look forward to sharing it with you!

Prerequisites:

We are looking for people who are mature, responsible, reliable and able to commit for at least a quarter, though commitment through the whole growing season would be ideal/preferred.

Able to work outside, lift 50 lbs, bend down for planting and harvesting, crawl around on your knees, etc.

Have own transportation, we encourage carpooling!

Able to take direction and communicate effectively.

Positive attitude and a good sense of humor.

And most importantly, passionate about growing clean, nutritious food.
