

Produce Pop-Up Internship Now Available!

Help Improve Access to Healthy Food at UCSC

Timeline: Beginning Winter Quarter 2019 (2 quarter commitment)

Credit: 2 and 5 unit available (with opportunities for a student paid position following internship)

To Apply: Contact program mentor Margaret Bishop (mlbishop@ucsc.edu) or program leaders Lanyia Simon-Bennett (lanersha@gmail.com) and Allie Mandel (abmandel@ucsc.edu) for details. Applications will be handled by the Environmental Studies Internship Office, envsinternshipoffice@gmail.com.

The Food Systems Working Group, anchored within the Center for Agroecology & Sustainable Food Systems (CASFS) is looking for two driven individuals to assist with our academic year organic Produce Pop-Up, which takes place once a week at the Quarry Plaza. In efforts to improve issues of food access and healthy food purchasing on campus, the Produce Pop-Up provides a space for students to purchase affordable produce sourced from the CASFS Farm and local Santa Cruz farmers' markets.

We are seeking applicants to work on outreach and collaboration efforts, budget and finance planning, and overall assistance in weekly preparation and operation of the Produce Pop-Up stand. Interns will gain valuable experience communicating with campus organizations, outreaching through social media and flyer design, and skills to maintain a reliable and functioning budget. To learn more about the Food Systems Working Group and the Produce Pop-Up, please visit us on Facebook and Instagram, or email project coordinator Margaret Bishop, mlbishop@ucsc.edu.
