What is PICA?

The Program in Community and Agroecology (PICA) is a educational and residential program focused on experiential learning, sustainability and food systems. All UCSC students are welcome to participate in the garden workdays and workshops offered. PICA residents have the opportunity to grow their own food together, share meals together, and explore ways to live more sustainably. PICA is located at the entrance to the Village at the UCSC campus, right across from the Center for Agroecology and Sustainable Food Systems (CASFS).

Internship Description

Interns at PICA will join the garden work teams and help with the horticultural tasks involved in maintaining a ½ acre of gardens across two nearby sites in the Village/Quarry.

Prerequisites

- Love of gardening
- Willingness to take direction
- Willingness to be creative
